

Reflections on a Sea

beneath you
light's visage in the glass on some lonely dinghy
has exposed the silver hue of night's coat
in much the same way that a simple kind act can impose the image of life
on the clockwork faces
around you